- How did you start this conversation?
- What support do you need?

GHOST BOYS

Let's discuss.

She felt something click inside. She suddenly realised she was no longer available for careers, relationships or thoughts that were not in alignment with her highest expression, desires and truth. Her worthiness had grown roots, and she was now unshakeable in the belief that she was worthy of a life of magic. And she knew that the only person that could give her that... was herself. So she put on her crown and got to work.
